THE TORPEDO.

In the Pacific waters a curious fish is found that gives out faint shocks when touched. The best known electric fish—the torpedo—is an inhabitant of our own waters. It belongs to the Ray family, and fishermen are often made painfully aware of its presence in their nets, the shocks passing up the lines, and even following up splashes of water, completing a current in this insecure way, and giving the men a violent shock. A specimen, half dead, gave shocks when handled by Dr. Atwood, and in handling others in good condition he experienced hard usage and many shocks that threw him upon the ground as quick as if he had been knocked down by an ax. He also received shocks by taking hold of the pole of a harpoon when at the distance of eight feet from the fish, and felt a numbness while holding the rope attached to the harpoon. Even when cutting the fish the fingers were so effected that he with difficulty grasped the handle of the knife.—The largest specimens of torpedo found in our waters weigh nearly 200 pounds.—The liver of this fish yeilds, in the largest, about three gallons of oil, which is regarded as of superior quality for burning. To test the power of this fish, a duck was placed over one that was confined in an aquarium. It swam around quietly for a few moments, and then suddenly became restive, darting from side to side in an erratic manner, trying to escape. Its discomfiture rapidly increased, as was shown by gasping and the fluttering of the wings. That only seemed to exasperate the fish to further efforts, and ten minutes from the time the duck was put in the water it was taken out dead. A large sunfish, when put in the tank, showed its terror by endeavoring to leap from it, but, falling back, it was soon paralyzed by the torpedo.

An experiment was made in giving the torpedo a shock, which was evidently unpleasantly affected, swimming out of the way and shaking its body with a peculrar motion, and opening its gills spasmodically, thus proving that it could be caught with its own weapon. The battery, if it can be called such, occupies a position between the skull and the pectoral fins on each side, and is a most wonderful and complicated provision of nature.

Mrs. Blaine had been some years in Washington before Mrs. ——, wife of a Democratic Senator, called on her. At last Mrs. —— was announced one day. As Mrs. Blaine entered her drawing room to receive her guest, she noticed the colored cook slip out hurridly from the reception room where Mrs. —— was waiting. This surprised her but she said nothing. Next day, however, her valuable cook left her to find a place in Mrs. ——'s kitchen. At a State dinner soon afterwards, given at the Executive Mansion, these ladies chanced to be placed with only a seat between them at the table. The gentleman sitting between them noticing that Mrs. Blaine did not address a word of conversation to his other neighbor, exclaimed: "Why, Mrs. Blaine, you know Mrs. Senator ——, do you not?" "No," was the answer, loud enough for all around to hear, "Mrs. Blank called the other day at my house on my cook, and her card was handed me by mistake. My cook returned the call."—Denver Inter-Ocean.

THE SOUND OF THUNDER.

Many persons have an indistinct idea of what causes the sound of thunder. Prof. Tait attempts to explain it as follows;

"The origin of the sound is, all cases, to be locked for in the instantaneous and violent dilatation of the air along the track of the lightning, partly, no doubt, due to the disruptive effects of electricity of which I have already spoken, but mainly due to a great rise of temperature which renders the air for a moment so brilliantly incandescent. There is thus an extremely sudden compression of the air all around the track of the spark, and less sudden, but rapid, rush of the air into the partial vacuum which it produces. Thus the sound-waves produced must at first be of the nature of a bore or breaker. But as such a state of motion is unstable, after proceeding a moderate distance the sound becomes analogous to other loud but less violent sounds, such as those of the discharge of guns. Were there few clouds, were the air of nearly uniform density, and the flash a short one, this would completely describe the phenomenon, and we should have thunder crash or a thunder clap, according to the greater or less proximity of the seat of discharges. But, as has long been well-known, not merely clouds but surfaces of separation of masses of air of different density, such as constantly occur in thunder storms, reflect vibrations in the air; and thus we may have many successive echoes, prolonging the original sound. But there is another cause, often more efficient than these. If the flash is a long one, all its parts being nearly equidistant from the observer, he hears the sound from all these parts simultaneously; but if its parts be at very different distances from him he hears successively the sounds from portions further and further distant from him. If the flash is much zig-zagged, long portions of its course may run at one and the same distance from him, and the sound from these arrive simmultaneously at his ear. The extreme distance at which thunder is heard is not great, when we consider the frequent intensity of the sound. No trustworthy observation gives in general more than nine or ten miles, though there are cases where it is possible to have heard it fourteen miles. But the discharge of a single cannon is often heard fifty miles, and the cannonade of a siege or naval engagement has certainly been heard at a distance more than one hundred miles, it being a matter of history that reports of guns at one of Napoleon's battles were heard in Norway, a distance of 120 miles."

WOVEN ASBESTOS.—In 1702 excavations carried on in a vineyard, just outside Porto Maggiore, Rome, unearthed a large marble urn containing piece of asbestos, two and a half metres long and one and a half wide, resembling a coarse wool or flax, but soft, smooth and flexible as if of silk. Asbestos, which is a variety of hornblende or pyroxene, is long fibres, having the delicate texture of wool and of a white or gray color, was formerly brought from Persia. It is incombustible, and was consequently employed, when duly wrought into cloth, as shrouds for the dead, and as napkins, towels, etc., which were cleaned by passing them through fire and finally used as wicks for undying lamps. The art of manufacturing this texture perished with the ancients, and remained a lost art until the present day, when a Genoese, one Cartagenova, after long and patient researche, has succeeded in discovering a process for the spinning and weaving of the asbestos, and has presented to the Municipality of Genoa a piece of cloth, a handkerchief, a sheet of paper, a lamp mat and rope, made from that material, which have resisted all proof, and the discoverer is authorized to proeed with the manufacture.

It is a great mistake to set up your own standard of right and wrong, and judge accordingly. It is a great mistake to measure the enjoyment of others by our own; to expect uniformity of opinion in this world; to look for judgment and experience in youth; to endeavor to mould all dispositions alike; not to yield to immaterial trifles; to look for perfection in our own actions; to worry ourselves and others with what cannot be remedied; to believe only what our finite minds can grasp.

How to Cure a Cold.

A medical journal tells how one man was cured of a cold: "He boiled a little wormwood and hoarhound together, and drank freely of the tea before going to bed. The next day he took five pills, put one kind of a plaster on his breast, and another on his back. Under advice from an experienced old lady he took these off with an oyster knife in the afternoon, and clapped on a mustard plaster instead. Then he put some hot bricks to his feet and went to bed. Next morning another old lady came in with a bottle of goose oil, and gave him a dose of it; and an aunt arrived about the same time with a bundle of sweet fern, which she made into tea, and gave him every half hour until noon, when he took a dose of salts. After dinner, his wife, who had seen a fine old lady of great experience, gave him two pills of her own make, about the size of a walnut, and of similar shape, and two teaspoonfuls of home-made balsam to keep them down. Then he took a half-pint of hot rum, at the suggestion of an old sea captain visiting in the next house, and steamed his legs with an alcohol bath. At this crisis two of his neighbors arrived, who saw at once that his blood was out of order, and gave him a half-gallon of spearmint tea and a big dose of castor oil. Before going to bed he took eight of a new kind of pills, wrapped about his neck a flannel soaked in hot vinegar and salt, and had feathers burned on a shovel in his room. He is now cured and full of gratitude."

A SENATORIAL RUSE.—A well known lawyer of this city tells a very unique story at the expense of the late Schurz of the interior department. It appears that a certain stalwart senator was very anxious to secure a clerkship for a worthy young man from his State; and, after trying in vain at most of the departments, determined to play the following ruse on Schurz and addressed him as follows:

"Mr. Secretary, I understand that a young man named ——, from my State, has applied for a clerkship in your department. I have called to enter my protest against giving him a position, as I understand that he has been boasting about town that he intended to get a place without my aid; but civil service rules would be in his favor, etc."

Mr. Schurz promised to look into the matter, and as soon as the senator left he sent a messenger to hunt up the young man. Upon his arrival Schurz questioned him closely, and stated that, while there were no vacancies, he would make one for any young man who had the independence and moral courage to attempt to get through the world without the aid of a "machine politician." The young man was put to work the next day, and is now one of the most efficient clerks in the patent office, notwithstanding the fact that he got there through a senatorial trick on the great reformer.—Washington Republican.

"Begorra, sir, there are some strong men among them!" replied the driver. "But will they fight?" asked the gentleman. "I tell you, sir, there are strong men entirely among them," answered the Jehu. Again pressed as to whether they would fight, the driver gave his hat a twist, leered with his eyes, and said, "Fight is it? Be-jabbers, they'd be afraid they'd be tuk up by the police!"

A certain Dean of Ely was once at a dinner, when, just as the cloth was removed, the subject of discourse happened to be that of extraordinary mortality among lawyers. "We have lost," said a gentleman, "not less than seven eminent barristers in as many months." The Dean, who was very deaf, rose at the conclusion of these remarks, and gave the usual form of grace: "For this and every other mercy make us devoutly thankful."

THE LEGISLATURE.

The Legislature adjourned sine die at noon yesterday. The members complained that the regular session of sixty days was too limited to get through with the public business—that they should have a session of one hundred days,—and they adjourned without doing any of the important work required. An extra session was called and has been in session long enough to give them the hundred days asked for—and what has been done? Nothing! Yes, they passed an infamous Road law, which the Governor vetoed; and they passed an Act to pay themselves for their valuable services, and the Governor vetoed that, but they passed it over his head. They did nothing that they were convened for, and it can be truly said that a more disreputable body of men never convened as a legislative body within the walls of a State Capitol. On Thursday several of the Assemblymen took the opportunity to score the press for telling the truth about them, and one professional gentleman had the cheek to say that he "believed the present Legislature was the best which had ever assembled in this State." In the same ratio, perhaps, that this cheeky member is the best doctor in the State. Both parties are in the same boat with the late Legislature, and are equally disgraced, for both parties in most of the counties seemingly sent their most unprincipled men in their ranks to the late Assembly. It is true there were some good men in the Assembly, but they were as rare, nearly, as are front teeth in the upper jaw of a cow. It is getting to be everything but honorable to be a member of the Legislature of this State, and, as a general thing, a high-minded, honorable man will not allow himself to be mentioned in connection with that position, and the Legislature that has just passed in its checks has not helped matters any in that respect; and now that the pay of members of the Legislature has been reduced from twelve hundred dollars a session to less than five hundred dollars, capable business men cannot afford to take the position, and so the people are left to the mercy of the class of men that largely composed the late Legislature. In the language of Governor Perkins' proclamation, "God save the Commonwealth"—from a like Legislature.

THE UNION.

BRIDGEPORT, MAY 14, 1881.

JOB PRINTING.—Job printing of the finest description will be furnished at this office at Sacramento prices.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

NEW VOLUME.—To-day the UNION enters upon its second volume—the CHRONICLE is on its 50th.

THE CONTEMPT CASE.—By request we herewith publish a certified copy of a document on file in the County Clerk's office. And we are pleased to thus exhibit to the friends of both parties this evidence of the honorable and courteous manner in which General Kittrell purged himself of contempt; and the friendly spirit in which the Court received it, by remitting the heavy fine imposed:

To the Hon. R. M. Briggs, Judge of the Superior Court of Mono County, California, Department No. 1:

May it please the Court:

Having carefully read and duly considered the matters charged against me in your order, dated April 21, 1881, requiring me to be and appear before your Honor, at 11 o'clock A. M. of the following day, to show cause why I should not be punished for contempt of Court, I beg to submit the following:

That with reference to the first charge, embraced in said order, I did in the presence of the Court, at the time alleged, use language of the import and meaning in said order attributed to me.

That by way of extenuation of the offense, I respectfully beg leave to submit that such language was uttered in a moment of passion, and at a time when my temper had mastered my better judgment.

That I had no intention, nor was it my desire to treat your Honor with disrespect, or be contemptuous to the Court, at the time of giving utterance to the words set out in said order. Nor was it my aim, object, desire or purpose, during the progress of the trial in the case of Stewart vs. Taylor, et al., at any time to be uncivil, discourteous, or disrespectful to the Court. If such were the case, it was born of a sudden ebullition of feeling, and was the result of momentary excitement and uncontrollable passion, superinduced by the excitement incident to the trial of a hotly contested and exciting lawsuit.

I can only add, as I have heretofore stated to your Honor, that I sincerely regret the unpleasant occurrences of said trial between the Court and myself, and repeat my disclaimer that whatever was done or said by me, in the trial of said cause, was with no intention whatever to insult your Honor, nor to treat with contempt any authority lodged in yourself as the Judge of said Court, and I hereby beg leave to retract the offensive language in said order contained.

As to the second matter set out in the order, I submit that the language there attributed to me is not accurately stated; but, be that as it may, I have this to say to your Honor, that whatever was said by me at that time was uttered when engaged in an encounter or personal altercation with the persons Stewart and Trapp, and under the highest state of mental excitement.—There was no deliberation or premeditation about the utterances.

I now say to your Honor, that at no time nor place have I ever accused your Honor of being in a conspiracy with A. B. Stewart and F. J. Trapp, or with either, or anyone to swindle or rob his (my) client, one F. J. Ephraim, or anyone else nor do I believe, nor have I ever entertained the thought, idea or belief that such was the case.

Whatever may have been my language spoken at the time last referred to, in justice to yourself, I am constrained as a gentleman and man of honor wholly to retract and express my regret therefor.

Respectfully,
Your ob't servant,
JOHN R. KITTRELL.

STILL IN FORCE.—Judge Hunt, of the Superior Court of San Francisco, has decided that the new Constitution repealed no local or special law, but that it applies to future legislation only and not to past legislation. Whatever local law, unrepealed by law, was constitutional under the old Constitution is constitutional under the present, but no special or local law can now be enacted. This kills the decision of County Attorney McQuaid and District Attorney Parker, that the new Constitution repealed the law limiting the Supervisors of Mono and certain other counties to a yearly salary and mileage of $250. Had the late Grand Jury examined the books of our Board of Supervisors, as they were directed in Judge Wiggin's charge, it would have found that two of our Supervisors were last year allowed nearly six hundred dollars each for salary and mileage, and the other, nearly four hundred dollars—making a total of nearly nine hundred dollars illegally paid them. We respectfully call the attention of the Grand Jury to meet next week to this matter, and we don't want them to forget it either.

COMING.—Three of the legal fraternity of Bodie, Bennett, Greeley and Hetzel, intend to remove to the County Seat. Mr. Bennett has rented Supervisor Loose's residence. Judge McQuaid left for Carson on Tuesday to meet his wife and youngest daughter from San Francisco.

THE SNOW BELT.—From parties who came over the Sonora road this week, we learn that the snow belt extends about four miles each side of the summit, and is rapidly being reduced by the warm rays of the sun. The parties referred to brought three horses with them.

PLANTING.—The farmers in the vicinity of Bridgeport are seeding their vegetable gardens, and Sidney Huntoon is trying his luck with small fruits.

GRAND JURY.—On Monday last Judge Wiggin ordered a venire of twenty-four Grand Jurymen, returnable on the 18th.

A. B. Stewart, Druggist, Bodie, has received a large stock of garden, flower and field seeds.

ANTELOPE VALLEY.—The farmers in this valley—the garden spot of Mono—have nearly all their planting done, and the prospects of an abundant harvest are very promising. The Antelopers have put in a larger planting of potatoes than usual, and the price of that important vegetable will undoubtedly be very low next Fall. This will be good news for the newspaper men of Bodie, as a few sacks of potatoes and a sack of salt will enable them to get through the Winter very comfortably.

Judge Poe has his first crop of strawberries ready to pick, but his second crop—to ripen in July—will be much larger.

A large quantity of land is being cleared of its sagebrush to make room for more useful and profitable crops. Several new homes are being made, and people of this beautiful valley seem to be happy, and contented with their acres, notwithstanding it is quite dull in their section.

Supervisor Morris Dick's only son died about ten o'clock on Thursday evening, of rheumatism, which probably reached his heart. Mr. Dick has the sympathy of all who know him in his bereavement.

Dan Barnett has been painting and refitting his commodious hotel for the Summer travel. Barnett had his painter stray off or stolen from him, before he had completed his contract—in fact he did but one job of graining before he came up missing, but that one job was so repugnant to Barnett's eye for the beautiful, that he quickly obliterated all traces of it, and is now ready to give one of our Bridgeport artists a contract.

During the past week a number of freight teams for Bodie and Bridgeport passed up through the valley. This road is one of the very best roads in the country, and on account of its easy grade and abundance of water, should be the favorite route for the Bodie and Carson teamsters.

The people of Coleville, and Antelope Valley generally, are somewhat exercised in regard to their mail facilities. They get but one mail a week, and that from Carson, to which place all the Bodie and Bridgeport correspondence must first be sent before it can be forwarded to Coleville "only thirty-five miles away." A direct mail route, with a tri-weekly mail, from Bridgeport, via. Coleville, to Carson is demanded, and we trust that General McCusick, the Postal Agent for this coast, who is expected here shortly to look into our mail arrangements, will see the justice of this demand, and recommend the establishing of the desired route.

HOT MUD BATHS—WONDERFUL CURES.—On Wednesday, while taking a drive to Antelope, we saw a young man connected with the Bodie Foundry under treatment at Sam Fales Hot Springs, for a disease that is apparently new; and is said to have baffled the skill of the best physicians of Bodie.—It is perhaps a bad case of blood poisoning, and as a dernier resort he was sent to the Hot Springs. His body, limbs and face and head were black with an eruption, the heads of which are about the size of the head of a pin, and which scale off at the rate of a bowl full a day. Mr. Fales has treated his patient with hot mud baths—the mud being taken fresh and hot from the springs for each bath. He was so low when the first bath was given that it was feared he would not survive it, but on our return yesterday he was taking a walk in the open air. His complexion is fast assuming its natural fairness, and within a week or so he will probably be able to return home a well man—Another Bodie man has been stopping at the Springs for the treatment of a diseased foot, which has been treated to a hot mud bath for four hours daily. He has been there a few days only, but he is now about ready to get into his boots and walk off.—These are remarkable results, and those afflicted with cutaneous diseases should try Sam Fales' hot mud baths, and be happy.

HOUSE AND FARM.

To prevent saddle galls, keep the back clear of scurf and dried sweat, also the lining of the saddle. The greatest care should be taken to secure a well-fitting saddle. In many cases the tendency to chafe is constitutional, and aggravated by high feeding on grain, or by some local disease of the stomach, liver, kidney or lungs. If the subject is out of condition, his system should be toned up, and his ability to undergo exertion without sweating should be fostered. In many cases advantages are derived from a daily dose of one ounce Glauber salts, one drachm carbonate of soda and two drachms powdered gentian root. When a horse subject to such sores returns from work warm and perspiring, the surfaces covered by the saddle and collar may be sponged over with a solution of five ounces of tincture of arnica, one drachm tannic acid and one quart of water. When actually raw all pressure must be kept off the part, and the sore may be kept wet with a lotion composed of one drachm carbolic acid, five ounces glycerine, one drachm tannic acid and one quart of water.--Sydney Mail.

Pampas grass is a very agreeable thing to everybody possessing what impressionists delight to call, in their own peculiar and vague way, the artistic instinct. Some farmers in Southern California have found that this beautiful grass can be grown with very little trouble, and sold for decorative purposes at a large profit. One of these men put three-quarters of an acre under the grass, and was able to sell each head or plume at 12 1-2 cents, netting about $500; another sold all he raised at 7 1-2 cents a plume. This industry is growing. Ten thousand plumes were disposed of in Southern California last year. Europe could take almost an unlimited number of them.

Ordinary letter paper, if well heated and rubbed briskly with the hand or a brush, acquires electric properties, and will adhere to tables and walls, and when the hand is brought in contact with it slight electric sparks are quite visible if the experiment is made in the dark.

In testing eggs, the fresher the egg the smaller the air chamber. This can be seen at the broad end of the egg if it be held against a strong light in a dark room. Stale eggs have a mottled, grayish look about them. A new-laid egg will always give a feeling of warmth if the tongue is pressed to the large end.

The well known lemon verbena is systematically gathered in Spain, where it is regarded as a fine stomachic and cordial, used in the form of a decoction. It is said that if it be used one need never suffer from flatulence, nervousness, diarrhea or loss of appetite.

Petroleum is an excellent preservative of exposed wood work and tools. It penetrates the pores and repays its cost many times over. It is good for all farm buildings, gates, tools and rustic work, besides having the merit of cheapness.

Prof. Schubeler's observations show that the long Summer days of high latitude cause flowers, fruits, etc., to gain an intensity of color and aroma, while from the want of heat, fruits become deficient in sweetness.

Among the French farmers it is considered much better to feed beet pulp to sheep and cattle for production of meat than for milk. Horses will not eat it readily.

Never feed decayed roots of any kind to cows giving milk. One decayed turnip fed to a cow would effect the milk of fifty cows if mixed.

Dip the tip of nails in grease and they will easily drive in hard wood.

Feed sulphur to hogs—they like it, and it does them good.

To stain floors: To strong lye of wood ashes add enough copperas for the required oak shade; put this on with a mop and varnish afterwards.

Simple cure for a cough: Half cup of honey and a tablespoonful of linseed oil mix.
